OGDEN, May 31.-The following clipping from the Live Stock Journal of Chicago of recent date refers to the big "Sheep Show and Auction Sale" to be held in Ogden this fall: be held in Ogden this fall:

Last winter a mid-winter sheep show was held here in connection with the National Wool Growers' cohvention, immediately at the close of which, steps were taken to establish a permanent sheep show and auction sale to be given here each fall.

Conservative figures show that about 148,000 rams change hands here each year among the various sheep men of this inter-mountain empire.

It is the purpose of this sheep show and auction sale to bring the breeder and the buyer together for mutual benefits, in the protection of buying and selling of the various breeds and grades of sheep. It is a source of much expense and annoyance for the sheep men to visit the herds of the various breeders in different parts of the country and provide his flocks with the requisite number of rams each year.

Assurance is given that the largest number of pure bred sheep ever brought together at any one previous show and sale will be here, and thousands of buyers will also be in evidence. Western sheepmen are now becoming somewhat organized in a movement to compel the eastern breeders to bring their stock out and meet them on their own ground.

In the last few years the breeder has been very successful in educating the sheep man in using high class sheep, and there can be no better way of continuing this campaign, than to get them together at the annual sheep show and auction sale.

The first four days of the show will be given over to the exhibiting and selling at private sale. The last two days will be given over to the grand auction sale, which will be pulled off by an expert live stock auctioneer.
